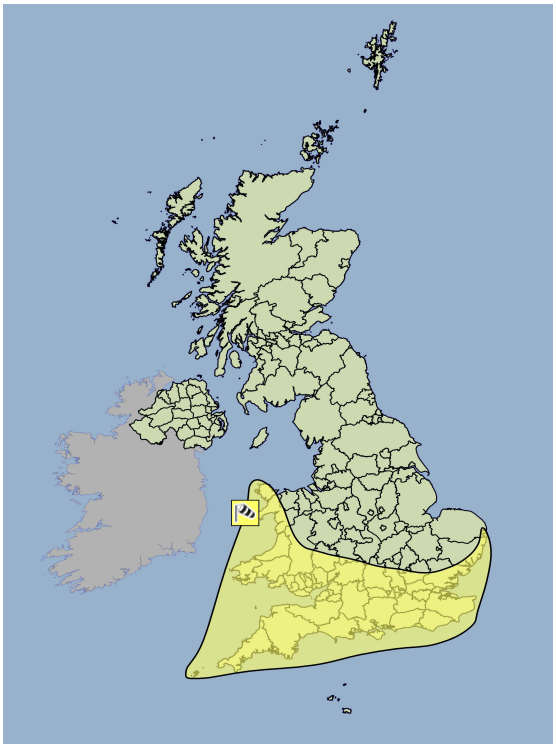
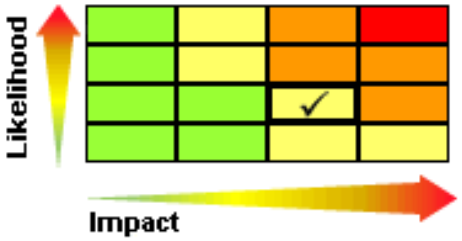
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A deep area of low pressure in the Atlantic will bring strengthening winds to England and Wales on Monday, especially southern parts. Gusts of 50-60 mph are likely inland, with 70-80 mph gusts possible along windward coasts, especially along the English Channel. There is also a low risk of 70 mph gusts extending further inland across southeast during Monday evening and overnight into Tuesday, before moderating on Tuesday morning.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Wind

Valid from 08:00 on Mon, 23rd Dec 2013 until 09:00 on Tue, 24th Dec 2013

South to southwesterly winds will increase during Monday morning with gales affecting many areas. Severe gales are likely across, and perhaps some distance inland from, south-facing coasts.

The public should be aware of the potential for disruption, especially where the high winds are combined with heavy rainfall.

Winds will moderate from the west on Tuesday morning.
